

I live in Ellington Connecticut and I vote. I'm a huge animal advocate. I am a volunteer at Protectors of Animals in East Hartford. I have first-hand seen the results from the spay/neutering of feral cats...trapping and releasing them after they are vetted if not deemed suitable as house cats. Others are socialized and adopted into loving families.

Protectors of Animals and other humane organizations make sure that they are vaccinated with rabies and other vaccines, even if they are still out in the wild. These animals need to be fed, and fed properly. Together we are helping to control the numbers of feral cats, improving the lives of the cats that have to stay outside, and improving the safety for the humans who take care of them. These are beautiful animals that deserve a chance. Please let these kind people continue to help these animals.
